THE EFFECT OF GOOD ROADS

Increase the Value of Tillable Farm Lands.

RESULT OF ECONOMIC SURVEY

Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering Has Made a Study of the Effect of Improved Highways Upon Farm Lands In Certain Counties of Different States.

To determine as far as possible the interdependence of city and country, writes Philip H. Elwood, Jr., in the American City. This is essential to the sound growth of the nation. Yet the development of the city has received much more careful study and planning than has that of the country. It is time that organized and intelligent forethought be brought to bear on the many intricate problems of rural planning.

The following are the most important agencies for the advancement of country and town planning at the present time:

American Civic Association.
Town and village planning boards.
Landscape profession.
Highway commissioners.
Village improvement societies.
Chambers of commerce and boards of service.
Art societies and commissions.
Lecturers.
University and state college extension service.

The above agencies are twofold—viz:

Educational,
Constructive.

The majority are heavily inclined toward the educational, which is no doubt best, but following the educational we must provide means of execution and construction.

In cities of course the situation is different. There large projects involving considerable outlay are the rule, and trained men, such as architects, landscape architects, engineers and lawyers are immediately called into consultation, and plans are prepared in a businesslike way.

But the thousands of small towns, villages and rural communities which feed the larger centers have intricate problems and need expert assistance, especially in the neighborhood of important cities where unsightly and insanitary conditions exist just beyond the city's jurisdiction. The larger cities are now growing into the country, and means of access should be improved and the country towns and villages made to serve the cities without losing their individuality.

Who is to help them? Suppose they have a village improvement society organized by well meaning citizens to eliminate some obvious evil. What can such an organization do in a large way with only the funds collected from sales, annual dues, suppers or other questionable means? Who is to help them in their worthy efforts to create something of which the best citizens may be proud?

One of the chief thoughts brought out at the recent national conference on city planning was the one voiced by Thomas Adams of Canada when he said that our great need in the United States was for some centralized control of the planning of our small towns and rural districts. Shall we attempt to form another national organization for the promotion of this idea, or shall we use the tried facilities now available? For the present the latter seems to be the wiser course.

We have in nearly every state in the Union a working organization, backed by the federal government, which if the people ask, can be developed to serve our needs in the planning and execution of our village and country improvement problems. I refer to the extension departments of our state universities and colleges. Here we have state help and a separate working unit in each state promoting and assisting public undertakings in our small towns and rural communities. The work must be judiciously administered or unsatisfactory results and much criticism will follow.

This is no unfriendly method, as it has been followed for several years in Massachusetts, and some of the other states are now taking up the work. To avoid criticism from professional men and to carry out the work in a satisfactory manner the following points have been quite clearly demonstrated by practice thus far:

Only work of a public nature should be undertaken, except for bona fide farmers, getting major incomes from the soil. Towns sufficiently large and prosperous enough to independent professional men.

All actual expenses are charged to the community served. The services of the expert are paid for by the state. The distance varies greatly, as in a large state, the state may not traveling expenses beyond a certain point.

Careful records of all operations should be kept, and thorough "follow up" carried out.

The execution of plans should be very closely superintended to avoid waste of time and money. In short, the construction and general handling of the work are carried on very much as from a regular professional office.

The idea of co-operation among the various states should be fostered. Let those who have had experiences tell others of their successes and failures, so that the mistakes of one state will not be repeated in another.

Marmalade and Crackers. Tea.
DINNER.
Cream of Corn Soup.
Chicken à la Marceau. Rice.
Potatoes. Cauliflower au Gratin.
Pineapple Salad.
Apple Pie.

Dressy Meats.

CLOTH HEART'S SEDAN.—Take as many lamb rib chops as are required to allow two to a portion, strip them of fat and bone (throw the bone into the stock pot) and saute them in butter to which the juice of an onion has been added. When done lay each on a toast round and pour over them a little highly seasoned smooth tomato sauce. Place an olive curl on top of each and serve hot. Mashed potato, made rich and creamy, with a cupful of smooth apple sauce beaten into it is very good to serve with the chops.

Turkey Patties.—For the filling: One cupful of diced cold turkey, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, one cupful of stock or milk, dash of cayenne pepper and salt to taste. Rub the flour and butter together over the fire, add the stock or milk gradually and stir until smooth, then add the seasoning and the diced turkey. For the shells: One and one-half cupfuls of flour, two-teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half cupful of shortening, pinch of salt and enough ice water to moisten. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together, work in the shortening with the fingers or a plated knife until flaky, stir in the water gradually to make a good biscuit dough, roll out thin and line the bottom and sides of gen tins. Fill with the creamed turkey and bake in a moderate oven for ten or fifteen minutes. Another way is to cut the dough with a biscuit cutter and bake the biscuits until done. Lift off the top and remove part of the center. Put in the filling and replace the top. These can be served at once if the sause is very hot.

Tongue With Mustard, Pickle, Sause.—Cut sliced tongue, one onion, one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of chopped pickles, one-half teaspoonful of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of Worcestereshire-sause, two cupfuls of hot water, salt, pepper and cayenne.

Slice the tongue thin. Mince a small onion and brown it in good drippings. When tender push it to one side of the pan and put in the sliced tongue. Turn each slice quickly, remove from the pan and keep hot. Brown a tablespoonful of flour in the pan, adding more fat if necessary; pour in the boiling water, the chopped pickle, the mustard, moistened in a little water, and the seasoning. Cook all together for a few minutes, keeping the heat below the boiling point after the meat is added. Arrange the tongue on a hot platter, the slices overlapping, strain the gravy and pour over the meat.

SAVING PAPER.

School Children of Philadelphia to Collect Old Newspapers and Magazines.

A paper saving plan whereby the 250,000 public school children of Philadelphia will be enlisted in collecting old newspapers and magazines to be sold for the benefit of the Playgrounds association, the proceeds to be used for developing new recreation centers, was taken up recently at a meeting of the board of education. Should the matter be favorably acted on by the board the school children will collect annually several thousands of dollars for their playgrounds.

The plan as introduced and referred to the committee on elementary schools by the president of the board, Henry R. Edmunds, is modeled after that now being successfully practiced in Chicago and Washington.

Because the paper shortage situation is becoming more acute, almost every line of business being affected by the abnormally high prices for paper, conservation of old newspapers and magazines is believed to be the only means which will give relief at the present time. This doctrine is being urged by the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Sixty three thousand pupils in the Catholic parochial schools of Philadelphia have begun a systematic collection of paper under the direction of Rev. John E. Flood, rector of St. Patrick's Catholic church. Several ministerial associations have endorsed the paper saving campaign and are using the funds derived from this source for church purposes.

Under the board of education plan it is expected that the children will be able to provide funds for extensive improvements in the equipment of the various recreation centers which in need at the present time, but for which appropriations are lacking.

The Playgrounds' association, it is understood, is enthusiastic over the plan and will willingly enter into the local movement, provided the board of education approves of the idea. School authorities in Washington and Chicago have already sanctioned the plan, and those of other big cities are preparing to participate in similar campaigns.

PLANS A TOWN BOOM.

Mayor of Wenonah, N. J., Urges County and Citizens to Assist.

Although he has just entered upon his third term as mayor of the borough of Wenonah, N. J., Mayor C. Fowler Clue has no intention of letting the town get into rut as a result of his administration, which began four years ago, and he and council are now planning some practical method of stirring up civic pride to a greater degree on the part of the citizens, with the idea of putting Wenonah well to the forefront of residential towns in south Jersey.

It is proposed by Mayor Clue, with the co-operation of the other borough officials and leading citizens, to hold a series of public meetings to be addressed by prominent speakers, with the idea of starting a town boom among the people of the town themselves.

Mayor Clue set forth some of his ideas in his annual message to council when he was sworn in for the third time. He said:

"If there is any one thing needed more than another to encourage and promote the growth and prosperity of Wenonah it is a development of civic pride among its citizens. I believe that every man, woman and child who lives in this beautiful town has a personal interest and pride in it, else why do they all live here? But so many of us have formed a habit of criticizing and knocking instead of boosting and boasting that we are hindering instead of helping the best interests of Wenonah."

It is my sincere desire, and I believe that it is our duty, that this borough council should take an active part in creating among our citizens a spirit of civic pride. This can be done and would be of the greatest good we could give the town during the year. The directors of the building and loan association and, I believe, other good citizens stand ready to help us, so let us get busy in boosting the prettiest, healthiest and best town in south Jersey."

A Winter Fire Hazard.

Many winter fires are caused by ill advised attempts to thaw frozen water pipes, says a bulletin of the National Fire Protection association. A burning match, torch or open flame of any description should never be employed for this purpose. To wrap the pipe with oil-soaked rags and set them on fire is worse than folly; it is incendiary.

Pipes are almost invariably adjacent to walls or partitions, where there is an ascending current of air to feed and spread a flame. Even if the flame does not start a fire, its steady local heat may cause the pipe to break and do damage to the premises.

Wrap the frozen section of the pipe with cotton cloth and pour hot water upon it (even if the hot water must be obtained from a neighbor) until the ice in the pipe gives way. Rags on the floor at the base or under the pipe will absorb the waste water, if the freezing is too severe to yield to this treatment send for a plumber.

Reputable plumbers always avoid running water pipes along outside walls where it is possible to do so.

The contractor should be told that without stirring until it comes to a hard ball when dropped into water, then add the flavoring and pour out onto a slab on a long distance. Make the contractor and when cool enough to handle pull until light and roll into a long piece about an inch in diameter. Cut off little lozenges or into pillows, whichever you prefer, put into a tin box and leave for at least eight hours before using.

Guarding Perishable Freight.

The traffic bureau of the Omaha (Neb.) Commercial club has succeeded in completing arrangements for the better care of shipments of perishable freight in the various freight depots of the city.

A New Model Typewriter!

No. 9 OLIVER

The Standard Visible Writer

BUY IT NOW?

Yes, the crowning typewriter triumph is here!

It is just out—and comes years before experts expected it. For makers have striven a life-time to attain this ideal machine, and Oliver has won again, as we scored when we gave the world its first visible writing.

There is truly no other typewriter on earth like this new Oliver "9." Think of a touch so light that the tread of a kitten will run the keys!

CAUTION!

The new-day advances that come along on this machine are all controlled by Oliver. Even our own previous models—famous in their day—never had the Optional Duplex Shift.

It puts the whole control of 84 letters and characters in the little fingers of the right and left hands. And it lets you write them all with only 28 keys, the least to operate of any standard typewriter made.

Thus writers of all other machines can immediately run the Oliver Number "9" with more speed and greater ease.

WARNING!

This brilliant new Oliver comes at the old-time price. It costs no more than less.

Oliver makes now out of date when compared with this new discovery.

For while the Oliver's splendid new features are costly—we have equalized the added expense to us by simplifying construction.

Resolve right now to see this great achievement before you spend a dollar for any typewriter. If you are using some other make you will want to see how much more this one does.

If you are using an Oliver, it naturally follows that you want the finest model.

17 CENTS A DAY!

Remember this brand-new Oliver "9" is the greatest value ever given in a type writer. It has all our previous special inventions—visible writing, automatic spacer and 6-1/2 ounce touch—plus the optional Duplex Shift, Selective Color Attachment and those other new-day features.

Yet we have decided to sell it to everyone everywhere on our famous payment plan—17 cents a day! Now every user can easily afford to have the world's crack visible writer, with the famous PRINTYPE, that writes like print, included FREE if desired.

TODAY—Write For Full Details

And be among the first to know about this marvel of writing machines. See why typist, employers, and individual everywhere are flocking to the Oliver. Just mail a postal at once. No obligation. It's a pleasure for us to tell you about it.

I. C. R. R. LOCAL TIME CARD.

See the new hats in all their glory at Mrs. Rose's opening March 22.

Mrs. J. H. Bray and children are in Russellville on a visit to home folks.

Mrs. Chas. W. Roark is in Owensboro on a visit to Mrs. Dr. J. M. Stuart.

Mrs. C. E. Martin and Miss Lorine were in Louisville several days last week.

Largest stocks, prettiest items, lowest prices—all at Mrs. J. A. Rose's shop.

Dr. L. P. Moore was in Louisville on professional business the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fred have moved into the Howard residence, recently purchased.

Mr. C. M. Martin has been confined to his home several days by an attack of the grip.

Messrs. J. P. Morgan, M. L. Wickliffe and Duncan Hamilton were in Louisville last week on business.

See and hear the $100 Victrola at Roark's; matchless as an instrument, classy in finish, artistic in design, liberal in dimensions.

Exposition of spring millinery modes will be made by Mrs. Rose at her opening next Thursday, March 22. Everybody invited.

Greenville is destined to become a great musical center—we now have agencies for following talking machines: Victor, Columbia, Edison, Pathé.

Mrs. Dr. L. F. Barz and Mrs. Mary Hollowell, who have been living in Portageville, Mo., for some time, have returned to their home near Depoy, where they will reside.

In leading clubs, on steamships, trains de luxe, most prominent hotels and best homes of the land you will find the best musical instrument—The Victrola. There's a reason.

John Peveler Dead.

Mr. John Peveler, a well known farmer, died at his home near Friendship last Friday night, following an illness of great length. He is survived by a large number of relatives. Interment was in the Friendship graveyard Saturday.

The condition of Muhlenberg roads the past week—but there are no roads.

The Victrola renders satisfaction complete—no user has one for sale or exchange.

Men of Methodist Church Have Pleasant Meet.

About 75 men members of the Methodist church had a most delightful time Friday night, when they met in social intercourse. The ladies of the church prepared and served a dinner that was hard to beat, and therefore most pleasing to eat, and everyone entered as heartily into that as the other features of entertainment. Talks made by several men put everyone in best humor, and the occasion is one long to be remembered. It is planned to have this as an annual event.

Store Burns at Rosewood.

The general store of Mr. H. Wesley Williams was burned a little after midnight Sunday, the loss being total. Fire was discovered in the rear of the building, inside, and it is thought that either a telephone wire carried electricity into the store, and that a stroke of lightning was the cause. Mr. Williams had $2000 insurance on the stock and $400 on furniture and fittings, which will bring his loss to around $1500. There was no insurance on the building. It is likely that a new stock of goods will be bought.

Man Kills Another at Cleaton Monday.

Ben Doss shot an instantly killed Ed. ("Bunk") Whitehouse at Cleaton late Monday afternoon. It is said that both men were drinking, when an argument came up about a dog, both men passing some hot words, and that both went for their guns, but Doss was quickest, and shot Whitehouse through the heart and in the mouth, death being instantaneous. Doss came to town and surrendered, claiming self defense. He is in jail, and his examining trial will be held today. The affair created widespread interest.

Baby Boy Dies Sunday.

William Young, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Plain, died Sunday afternoon at their home on North Main street, from an attack of pneumonia, following measles. A song and prayer service was conducted at the home and Monday afternoon interment was made in Evergreen cemetery. The parents and family have the deepest sympathy of all our people.

The regular clinic last Monday kept doctors and helpers busy, as there were several patients presented themselves for examination and treatment. Operations were found necessary in a few cases.

Prof. E. L. Casto and Messrs. G. C. Morgan and Oren L. Roark, the committee appointed by the school board to supervise the improvement of the college campus, held their first meeting on the grounds, last Friday afternoon, and are planning a field day, to clear the campus of all trash, stones, roots, stumps, etc., to trim and treat the trees, and do general preliminary work which is necessary.

Moving Pictures For Children.

The Woman's Book Club is in correspondence with the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. This board is made up of teachers' and social workers who have at heart the moral welfare of children. They will send us a list of their best films for children under twelve years of age and for family groups.

If you are interested in making our local show a means of education and an uplift in the community signify your interest by speaking to Mr. Duncan or members of the Woman's Book Club of your approval of one night for the children.

Weather Forecast for Week.

Forecast for the week beginning Sunday March 11, 1917.

For Ohio Valley and Tennessee: Local rains are probable Sunday. Thereafter generally fair until Thursday or Friday when rains are again probable. Colder Sunday night and Monday. Warmer Tuesday and Wednesday and moderate thereafter.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors and also the Doctor for their kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our little darling, Hattie. May God's richest blessings rest upon each one is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Hammond.

Rev. William Savage will occupy the pulpit at 11 and 7 o'clock Sunday, at the Christian church, and everyone is given a most cordial invitation to attend these services.

Just one Stewart talking machine at the $5 price, at Roark's. Next shipment takes the $6.50 price.

Looks like spring.

Mrs. J. A. Rose has placed a Victrola in her home, and she and her friends have started on the collection of the world's best in music, song and story.

Barn and Contents Burned.

Mr. Fred Martin, who lives on the Dr. Felix Martin farm, near Earles, suffered a loss of $1500 Sunday night when his barn was burned by lightning. Four mules, one horse, about 400 bushels of corn, a lot of hay, harness, implements, etc., were burned, nothing being saved. There was no insurance on building or contents.

John Day Claimed By Death.

John Day, in his 40th year, died at his home near Nebo at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, from pneumonia following measles. He was a well known and popular citizen, and stood high in his community. Burial was at Nebo yesterday afternoon. Surviving are his wife and four children, who have the sympathy of all in their sorrow.

Cook Hayes and Macon Bennett returned Tuesday from Louisville, where they were mustered out of service. They have been with the Kentucky troops on the Mexican border since the first of September, and army life appears to have agreed with them, both boys showing fine development.

Aged Man Dies Last Wednesday Night.

Mr. Edward P. Sanford, aged 84 years, died at the home of his son, Mr. D. B. Sanford, near Sharon, Wednesday night of last week, from Bright's disease, after a lingering illness. He was one of the pioneers of his neighborhood, a man of high character, and had a wide circle of friends. He was buried in the family graveyard Thursday afternoon, and a large number of friends attended the ceremony.

John Schaefer, an inmate of the poor farm, died last Saturday night from complications incident to his age, 76 years. Sunday afternoon his body was buried on the farm beside that of his wife, who died several months ago.

Roark has received hundreds of new talking machine records this week, and will be glad to demonstrate.

Gives Ten Per Cent. To Campus Improvement Fund.

Mr. Leslie Hale, in addition to a substantial subscription already made to the fund for improving the college campus, has agreed to give 10 per cent. of his cash sales to that fund. This is a most commendable act, and will add materially to the sum. Interest is growing in this movement, and next week we shall publish a list of subscriptions.

The War Spirit.

If I must take my sword and shield, and go forth to crimson field, to slay my country's foes, I'll slay with fierce, titanic zeal; I'll carve the foreman with my steel and pile the dead in rows. I wish that bloody war might cease; I stand up strong for balmby peace, abhorring martial fuss; but when my stricken country calls I don my bombproof overalls and load my blunderbuss. The trusty sword of Bunker Hill I take down from the window sill, where it has rusted red, and where the enemies are thick I travel on the double-quick, and stack up cords of dead. In times of peace it's well to roast the captain and his gory host, and say that war's a frost; but when our country calls "To arms!" we face the dangers and alarms, and never count the cost. I seize my lance and snickersnee, to meet the toe on land or sea, and from him spill the grease; and when the guns no longer roar, and I quit sloshing round in gore, I'll whoop again for peace.

To The Farmers of Kentucky.

After an earnest and careful investigation in this State relative to the high cost of food products, the necessities of life, the basic cause can be placed upon the fact that the farmers of Kentucky during 1916 failed to plant and produce a sufficient amount of food products, not alone to supply the local demand but an inadequate amount for their own family consumption, and are today buyers in the open market for such. The citizens of the cities and towns are not expected and can not plant and produce these necessities thus relying upon the farmers, and when both country and city people become competitive buyers in the open market for these products, it is no wonder that prices soar to the present unreasonable proportions. The first duty the farmer owes to his family is the production of a sufficient amount of food products to sustain and feed the members of that household. This being done they are independent. Then conserve the products at hand. At this time there are many effort being put forth to teach the need and advantage of conservation of home products. It is done through organized work, through bulletins and through teaching and fortunate is the farmer who has learned this lesson of "production and conservation." In this way he will be surprised to what an extent this large production and caring for the surplus product will mean in money in his pocket and sustenance to his fellow beings.

It is for this reason that I call upon the farmers of Kentucky to materially increase their planting this year, so that a surplus may accrue which when placed upon the market will reduce the extremely high cost of living and drive penury and want from the many hungry starving families of this Commonwealth.

Sincerely,
Mat S. Cohen,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

"EVERYTHING GOOD TO EAT"

The Dairy Scrap Book

Badly Buttered.

"Drunkenness is folly," earnestly exclaimed Bishop Magee in the house of lords on a celebrated occasion. How horrified was the prelate to read in the papers next morning that he had given utterance to the very bacchanalian sentiment, "Drunkenness is folly."

Lord Salisbury was a master phrase maker, but one of his best points was spoilt when a careless reporter turned his reference to "mimic and Manteb" into the meaningless "mimic and men at the bar."

Sir William Harcourt was baldly misquoted once. "Great is Diana of the Ephesians," he exclaimed upon the platform, but one paper had it: "Great Dumb! What a farce is this!"

Lack of knowledge of familiar quotations is a prolific source of misreporting. For instance, a speaker once made use of the well known lines from Milton's "L'Allegro."

But come, thou goddess, fair and free,

In heaven yclept Euphrosyne.

The brilliant reporter deputed to take him down" was in despair. He could not make head or tail of this mysterious utterance. But, following its sound as far as possible, he seized it and produced the following:

But come, thou goddess, fair and free,

In heaven yclept Euphrosyne.

The speaker was taken down in more senses than one.—London Tit-Bits.

Fate.

The sky is clouded, the rocks are bare,
The spray of the tempest is white in air,
The winds are out with the waves at sea,
And I shall not tempt the sea today.

The trail is narrow, the wood is dim,
The panther clings to the aching limb,
The lion's whelps are abroad at play,
And I shall not join in the chase today.

Put the ship safely over the sea,
And the hunters came from the chase in glee,
And the town that was built upon a rock
Was swallowed up in an earthquake shock.

—Dred Harte.

Giving the Right Thing.

"I don't seem to say the right thing to women," a bashful young man confided to me the other day, "and that's why I don't shine in society. I'll tell you my instance of it. Not long ago I met a woman I hadn't seen for ten years, and I could see that she was trying to keep young, so I thought I'd say a graceful thing to her. 'You carry your age remarkably well,' says I."

"Well, the moment I said it I could see that I was in wrong. She was looking chily and getting red, so I said:

"Don't mind my little jokes. I never mean what I say. As a matter of fact, you don't carry your age a bit well."

"And then she killed me with a saucy look and sailed away without saying goodby. Say, how should I have put it?"

Hard to Find

"We really must let our sitting room furnished!" exclaimed Mrs. Dog to her husband.

"All right, my dear," he replied. "It's just an advertisement in the local paper. You leave it to me."

Hunting for his rule, he visited the room in question and made some notes. The days passed by, but no inquiries were made.

"Did you see that advertisement?" asked Mrs. Dog.

"Rather! I had it in the next day," replied her husband.

"It's disappointing to have no replies. What did you put in?"

He fetched the paper and proudly showed the paragraph, which ran:

"To let, furnished, sitting room; suitable for lady or gent fourteen wide and cheerful."

A Stenographer's Stumble

A judge in one of our middle west states advertised for a stenographer with experience in legal work. A number of applicants called at his office for the purpose of making application for the position. Each applicant was given a trial to test her speed, accuracy, etc. Among the applicants was a young lady whose anxiety to make a good showing evidently unnerfed her. The judge dictated to her a few sentences in legal language, one of which was, "That would give him time to complete the devastation of the assets." The sentence as transcribed by the young lady on the typewriter read as follows: "That would give him time to complete the devil's stadium with a hatchet." Although much amused at her ludicrous blunder, the judge permitted her to go away without telling her of her mistake.—Case and Company.

He Turned the Joke.

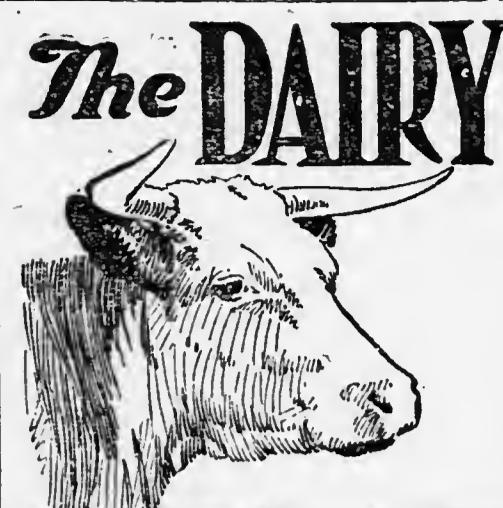

Seven-year-old Willie sat next to his grandfather at the dinner table and handed him a note from the principal of the public school requesting the attendance of the grandfather at a meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' association. The old gentleman, who is fond of a joke, pretended to read as follows: "Dear Sir—Your crop earred, handly legged, sullied nose boy needs spanking. There are no shingles in this school sufficiently heavy for the purpose. Will you kindly take him into the woodshed and administer a much needed correction?"

Everybody at the table laughed except the youngster. With a perfunctory face he said, "Oh, grandfather, I should not have thought that you would preserve all those years a note that was written to your father when you was a boy!"—Los Angeles Times.

HEAVY FEED CAUSES SCOURS

Common and Very Effective Remedy Is Dose of Castor Oil—Best to Feed Calf Twice Each Day.

(By W. L. FOWLER, Department of Animal Husbandry, Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater.)

The change of climate and milk should not cause a calf to scour, unless too much milk of poor quality is given to the calf en route or after it arrives. Scours are generally caused by heavy feeding or by the use of cold or sour milk fed out of unclean buckets. In case of calf scours, I would cut its amount of milk to about one-half and give a dose of castor oil, or a mixture of salol and bisnuth substrate. The latter is a common remedy and is very effective.

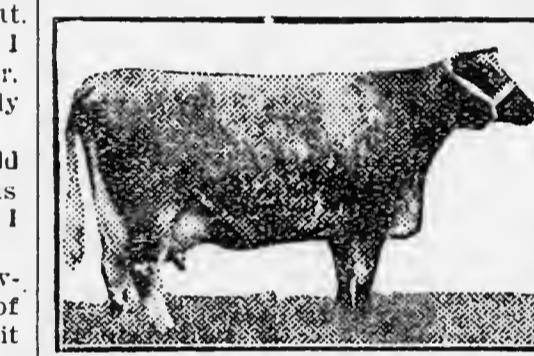

The best practice is to feed the calf twice a day. If you are milking your cows three times a day, the calf can be fed as often. Good results are had by feeding the calf warm sweet milk immediately after the cows are milked. If the calf is of the Jersey or Guernsey breed, eight to ten pounds of milk a day for the first few weeks will be enough. If you have no way of weighing the milk, it would be a good idea to feed just a little more than half a gallon of milk twice a day.

SAVING BEST HEIFER CALVES

Keep Record of Each Individual Cow and Save Offspring of Best Producers for Herd.

(By G. W. BARNES, Department of Agriculture, University of Arizona.)

You cannot always buy good cows, but another way to get a good herd together is by keeping records of the production of each individual cow in your herd and saving the heifer calves from the larger producers. These calves being from good registered sire and from selected cows, it will not take many years to build up a first-class herd. You can only know your best cows by continuous weighing and testing of the milk, and keeping records of each individual so that some information may be secured as to the cost of production, which is growing more important as the prices of feed-stuffs and labor advance.

Prize-Winning Shorthorn.

KEEP YOUNG CALVES THRIFTY

Ration Consisting of Cracked Corn, Whole Oats, Bran and Oil Is Considered Excellent.

A very excellent ration for keeping young calves in good, thrifty, healthy, growing condition is one consisting of equal parts cracked corn, whole oats, bran and oil meal. This fed regularly and liberally in conjunction with clover hay will make them thrive well. The cracked corn furnishes carbohydrates in sufficient proportion to keep the calves in excellent flesh and it furnishes heat for warming their bodies in cold weather. Whole oats are very excellent for imparting bone and muscle-growing material; also staining in young calves. Cracked or shelled corn and whole oats will be digested just as readily and efficiently by calves under one year as will these grains when ground, and calves seem to prefer them unground.

REGULARITY IS GOOD HABIT

Unequal Periods Reduce Quality and Quantity of Milk—Annual Out-pot is Much Less.

In all things regularity is a good practice, but in milking it is imperative. As a rule, the cow is milked at about five o'clock of mornings in summer and at seven or eight o'clock in the morning in winter. The evening milking is done very late in summer and very early in winter. The unequal periods are made for the cow by this sun-to-sun milking, and as a consequence the quality of her milk and the quantity of the same, as well as the length of her annual period of milking, are reduced.

WEED OUT PROFITLESS COWS

As Result of Work of Testing Associations Many Inferior Animals Are Being Replaced.

Cow-testing associations are increasing in number all over the country and innumerable profitless cows are thus being weeded out and replaced by cows that pay their way and an interest on their value.

FOR POULTRY MEN.

- Here are some good poultice's mottoes:
- Plan your work, then work your plan.
- Stop guessing—know.
- Do it now.
- Trap nest, leg band, keep accounts, records, have system.
- Trifles make perfection, and perfection is no trifles.
- The colder the day the more corn feed.
- Many holes, many colds.

WORM INFESTED HORSES.

Animals Thus Afflicted Soon Get Out of Condition.

Many horses get out of condition or fail to make gains during the winter months because they are infested with worms. This is especially true of colts. Horses suffering from worms generally have a good appetite but apparently benefit little from the food eaten.

There may be no symptoms which point conclusively to worms, but this trouble is so common that if the colts and horses are not doing as well as they should for the feed given, a worm remedy should prove of decided value. In treating horses for worms Dr. L. S. Backus of the Missouri College of Agriculture suggests it is well to keep in mind that the drug is meant for the worm rather than the horse and should therefore be given in as concentrated a form as possible. To insure this little or no bulky food should be fed during the course of treatment, and as the parasites are stupefied by worm remedies rather than killed the animal's bowels should be kept in an active condition so that the stupefied worms may be passed out before they regain their vitality. A well salted bran mash once a day will generally insure such an action.

The following formula is a worm remedy which is also of value as a tonic: Powdered myrra, two ounces; powdered gentian root, four ounces; powdered aerea nut, six ounces; sodium chloride (common salt), four ounces; arsenious acid, two drams. Mix. Give a heaping teaspoonful to every 250 pounds weight every morning and evening for about ten days. The medicine may be mixed with ground feed or sprinkled over oats or corn which has been dampened.

NOTE THE BREEDING PENS.

Select Only Thrifty Hens and the Sturdiest Males in the Flock.

The farm flock either improves or deteriorates from year to year according to the attention given to the mating which precedes the laying of the eggs used for hatching, says Better Farming. Now is the time to note the breeding pens for hatching eggs in February. Make the final selections and keep only the strongest, sturdiest hens. To these mate the sturdiest, most lusty, best bodied roosters.

All improved stock returns to the normal or mediocre unless one constantly breeds up and up. There is no standstill. The flock either goes forward or backward in strength. It might as well get better. To insure that requires only a little attention to the mating. Do it now. Pick out your breeding stock and watch the results in the next crop of chicks. No work on the farm will pay better than the few hours spent in mating up the breeding pens.

See that the layers are receiving a good laying ration, supplying plenty of protein, green feed and oyster shell. This is the time to feed the surplus vegetables that are stored away in the cellar. A cabbage head suspended by strings a couple of feet from the floor will be relished by the hens. Be sure you are giving them plenty of exercise.

Clean up the incubator and get it in running order. It would be advisable to run a trial hatch before the season opens.

There is always some new equipment, such as brooders and feed hoppers, and this is the time to order all such supplies.

If you considered any addition to your poultry yard? A small trial with ducks, geese, turkeys, capons or pigeons may prove profitable.

ORCHARD HINTS.

The soil should be well prepared before trees are planted in a new orchard. Plow it deep with a turning plow; then harrow till there are no clods. Even after doing this it pays to blast holes for the trees.

Experiments have shown that trees in blasted holes grow much faster and bear sooner than trees set where there is hard subsoil for the roots to penetrate.

If blasting is not done it will be advisable to throw out the plowed soil with a shovel at the spot where a tree is to stand and dig deep with a pick; and one should never fail to have the ground loosened deep for pear trees, as their roots grow downward more than any other kinds of trees and often die because of shallow holes.

When the trees are planted their tops should be cut off about one-third the way down. This helps the roots to take hold in the soil, shuts off much of the demand of the tree for elements from the soil and goes far toward insuring the life and the healthfulness of the tree. And this toppling ought to be done each year till about the third year.

Potted Ox Tongue.

One pound of cold cooked ox tongue, six tablespoonsfuls of butter or fat from tongue, ground mace, made mustard, one teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, red pepper.

Cook tongue fine and put it in a basin with the butter or the fat from the tongue, if any is left; season to taste. Rub the mixture, after it has been well pounded, through a fine sieve. Press into small pots, cover with clarified butter or lard; keep in a cool place.

A History of Muhlenberg County

BY OTTO A. ROTHERT

THIS book tells of the wilderness conquered, and of the adventures of the men and women who founded and developed the county up to and since the beginning of the railroad era, and made possible the achievements of to-day. It is the story of the county from the standpoint of its personal and public traditions, which have been arranged in related groups and form an almost continuous narrative.

It was published in 1913. Competent judges have pronounced it the best county history ever published in the United States. The Courier-Journal says, "The book is worthy of study, not only for the pictures it gives of early times and early society, but for the wealth of its curious and valuable illustrations and its expositions of the industrial and social progress of the county and its towns." The Western Recorder says, "It is more interesting than a good novel; it will interest old and young alike." The Greenville Record says, "Every Muhlenberger and former citizen of the county will value the book far above the price at which it is offered." The American Historical Review says, "The book not only contains much that is of interest to the student of Kentucky history but is written in a pleasing style."

It is a labor of love offered at cost of production, the author's time and work being contributed. The book contains 500 pages, 240 excellent illustrations and a complete index. It is printed on a superior quality of paper and is handsomely bound in dark red cloth.
